The ALBERTA PACIFIC GRAIN COMPANY Ltd.
LICENSED AND BONDED WITH THE BOARD OF GRAIN COMMISSIONERS

A Campaign of falsehood

The opponents of the present methods of grain marketing are using freely the weapons of abuse and misrepresentation in endeavour to discredit the grain trade, to force their own policies upon the country and to obtain an unfair advantage for the Pools at the country elevator points.

THE FOLLOWING FACTS ARE TRUE:

1. The Western Pools are and have been since their inception, members of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. They continually use the facilities of the Exchange for the benefit of their customers.

2. When representatives of the grain trade were called upon to give advice to the Dominion Government in 1935 concerning the establishment of a Wheat Board, they appeared publicly before a Parliamentary Committee. On that occasion, as the first witnesses called, they advised the Government to appoint a Wheat Board, to provide a minimum price for the protection of farmers and to use every available channel to market Canadian wheat and to maintain Canada's place in the wheat markets of the world. The representatives of the Western in the wheat markets of the world. The representatives of the Western in its original form under which no provision was made for a minimum price but only for the establishment of a compulsory marketing system.

3. The Winnipeg Grain Exchange is one in the chain of world's grain markets. It is a meeting place for all buyers and sellers of grain. The grain trade has no quarrel with those who think a better method can be found, but up to date no one has discovered a method of meeting that will better serve the interests of the farmer.

4. It is the interest of the grain trade that the farmer should obtain the best possible price for his product and the maximum Government support in the hour of his need. The interest of the grain trade is not thus at variance with that of grain growers; on the contrary, the grain trade realizes keenly that the prosperity of agriculture is essential to the well-being of the Dominion and of all its industries including their own.

5. No line elevator company, any more than a Pool elevator company, designs to make profit from the fluctuations of grain prices, which are determined by numerous causes that are not and cannot be controlled by the grain trade, the Wheat Board or the Pools.

6. As has been stated before on numerous occasions, in the plainest possible terms, the grain trade has no quarrel with the fixing of a made no representations to the Government against the fixing of a high minimum price nor in favour of the dis-establishment of the Wheat Board or the curtailment of its activities.

THE FOLLOWING QUOTED STATEMENTS ARE FALSE:

1. The Western Producer, which is the organ of the Saskatchewan Pool, states in its issue of September 10, 1936, that the Government has decreed the death of the Wheat Board and thereby has complied with the express desire of the grain trade. THIS IS FALSE. The grain trade has expressed no such desire.

2. The same paper, in the same issue, states, "The work of a generation is to be scuttled and if its present intentions are carried out next year, and for many years thereafter, the farmers, if they have a crop, are to be thrown to the wolves of the Grain Exchange." This statement is merely abusive and its implications libellous. If it is intended to mean that the members of the Grain Exchange, which comprises all the elevator companies (including the Pools), the mills and piers all the elevator companies, both foreign and domestic, who compete for the sale of the Western Canadian crop, are organized for the purpose, not of service to the producer but to prejudice his interest, this statement is not only false but must be known to be false to the editor and owners of this paper.

3. The following statement is contained in a circular forwarded to various organizations throughout Western Canada by the Saskatchewan Provincial President of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation: "The Government, by setting the pegged price at 87 1/2 cents, basis No. 1 Nor. Fort William—72 cents to the farmer—has taken monies from you and given it to the Grain Exchange." This statement is false and can only be based upon complete ignorance or extreme malice. No line elevator company, any more than any Pool elevator, designs to make any profit from the fluctuations of grain prices. The grain trade challenges the gentlemen who made this statement to explain it and to prove it. It is inconceivable that the Western Pools and the elevator companies who have served the producer of Western Canada for so many years, efficiently and honourably, should be willing to continue to belong to an institution which is organized for any such evil purpose.

4. The numerous statements being made throughout the country by propagandists that the grain trade is desirous of anything but the welfare of the farmer, or has brought pressure upon the Government with reference to the Wheat Board or the wheat policy of Canada, is untrue.

NOTE: It is understood that a Commission will shortly be set up to inquire into the grain marketing system. The grain trade invites those who have made the above statements and similar misrepresentations of fact, to appear before the Commission and support their statements by evidence and argument.

Equitability In Debt Adjustment

With governments, boards of adjudication and arbitration and organizations innumerable all imbued with different ideas on the subject, the process of deflating the accumulated indebtedness of farmers in the prairie provinces, generally referred to as debt adjustment, is an exceedingly complicated problem.

It is not rendered any the less so because the problem is being dealt with by a multiplicity of tribunals with varying degrees of authority and some with none at all, and in view of the fact that the human element is a very important factor in straightening out the tangled affairs of the debtors on a reasonable basis and at the same time to the satisfaction of both parties to amended contracts.

The large number of debtors involved, the wide variations in the nature and terms of the agreements from which some easement is sought, the great spread in circumstances and conditions under which the debtors have been and still are operating, the wide range in the capacity and ability of the land to produce, as well as other factors, conspire to prevent the placing of debt adjustment on a mathematically scientific basis and for this reason, decisions of tribunals and new agreements made on a voluntary basis may not always appear on the face of them, to be equitable when compared with other decrees and other agreements.

Where voluntary adjustments are made by mutual consent of debtor and creditor, either directly or through the medium of a board, the question of equitability is not an important consideration. So long as the two parties involved can reach a decision satisfactory to both, the terms are of no concern to any other person.

But where the terms of a new agreement are imposed on debtor and creditor by a tribunal armed with enforcement authority, the question assumes a different complexion. Under such circumstances, while as stated at the outset, agreements cannot be made to comply with any rigid mathematical formulae for the reasons set forth, every effort should be made to establish fundamental principles and policies which will ensure the nearest possible approximation to equitability.

Some, perhaps all of the boards operating in the three provinces have already enunciated principles trending in this direction to which they are prepared to adhere as closely as circumstances permit. They have announced that the chief objective of their decisions is to keep the farmer on the land and enable him to carry on. From this it follows that new contracts authorized must comprise terms within the capacity and ability of the farmer-debtor to comply. At the same time they must be fair and reasonable from the creditors' viewpoint, if for no other reason, for the sake of availability of future credit.

The Federal Board of Review in Saskatchewan, however, has gone even further than enunciating the general principles outlined above. In a recent announcement the board declared that after the total amount of real estate mortgage indebtedness due to be repaid has been determined, new agreements will cover a ten year period, providing for repayment of principal sums in ascending scale, the agreement to bear a maximum interest rate of six per cent, with provision for suspension of payment in years of crop failure. Fairly specific policies, with reservation for variation under special circumstances, were also announced with respect to other forms of indebtedness.

Whether or not the precise terms outlined meet general approval, the effort to provide a measure of uniformity of general debt adjustment provisions is a step in the right direction and should similar policy be adopted by the boards in the provinces of Alberta and Manitoba, as is indicated they are likely to do, a further step forward in the direction of equitability will have been made.

Recently the United Farmers of Canada suggested that some provision should be made for appeal from decisions of the Boards of Review but if the general principles and policies which have been promulgated, at least by the Board in Saskatchewan, are followed as closely as varying circumstances permit, it is reasonable to assume that requests for the right of appeal will presently dissolve.

If a generally satisfactory degree of equitability can be made effective in decrees of the respective boards and if debtor and creditor will approach negotiations under voluntary mediation in a spirit of reasonableness much of the difficulty of debt adjustment will automatically be dissipated and what is now a complicated problem will be materially simplified and costs of the undertaking much reduced.

Has Made Last Attempt

Hugh Rutledge Gives Up Idea Of Scaling Mount Everest

Hugh Rutledge, leader of the 1936 Mount Everest expedition, which was beaten by bad weather, says he has made his last attempt to scale the world's highest peak.

In future he will live in a yacht with Brixham, Devon, as his base, and will be satisfied with climbing smaller mountains.

He outlined these plans when he arrived at Plymouth from India.

"We saw Mount Everest at its worst," he said, "we reached a height of 20,000 feet, but never had a chance because the monsoon broke earlier than the ever before."

Mr. Rutledge believes that Everest will be climbed one day.

"There will be no difficulty in obtaining permission for another expedition," he said, "the old objection on religious grounds by the Tibetan government has vanished. We were entertained most hospitably at a monastery 16 miles from our base camp."

"The 300 monks there offered prayers for our success, and blessed us on the eve of our departure."

"Strange beliefs still exist, however. For instance, it is believed that moving a stone means the release of an evil spirit, and we had some difficulty when we wanted to remove boulders from our path at the beginning of the ascent."

Mr. Rutledge added, "I shall never climb Everest. At 51 I am too old. I shall still climb smaller peaks, and they are often harder than the biggest mountains."

Purchase Canadian Seed Grain

Russian Representative Here To Secure Rust-Resistant Grain

Best new type of Canadian wheat, chosen for their rust-resistant and good hard milling qualities, are being bought in experimental quantities at seed for potential widespread planting in the Soviet Union, it was announced at Edmonton by A. S. Essipov, top executive in charge of grain experimentation for the entire U.S.S.R.

Mr. Essipov, whose headquarters are in Moscow, came to Edmonton to confer with Dr. K. W. Neaby, professor of the fields crops division of the University of Alberta, to arrange for purchase of some seed grain and to study the activities of several leading seed growers in the Edmonton district.

Mr. Essipov, whose portfolio is "chief of the state plant-breeding fund of the Soviet people's commissariat of agriculture," declared that the Soviet is definitely not in the export market in competition with Canada as far as grain is concerned.

He would like to see trade relations with Canada re-established, he said, and he hoped that the recent Moscow visit of Hon. W. D. Euler, federal minister of trade and commerce, may lead to a resumption of the Soviet-Canadian trade which was stopped by the Dominion a few years ago.

Gang Warfare

Gangsters Cause Trouble For Police In London And Glasgow

In London and Glasgow alike war has been declared on gangsters. Two men lay in Bahama hospital. They had been slashed by razors in a gang fight. Police circulated a message asking for news of the gang whose activities have been worrying authorities for some time past.

Glasgow magistrates have decided to "exercise their powers to the fullest extent" to stamp out the city's armed gangs. The chief constable and a special committee reported that gang warfare had spread to such an extent in the east end of Glasgow as to "create considerable anxiety in the minds of the public."

Japanese Were Offended

Exhibit Of Art Objects Carried Design Like Imperial Crest

Because several foreign-made art objects contained decorative motifs which resembled the Japanese Imperial crest, they were ordered withdrawn by the police from an exhibition in Nihonbashi, Japan. The design is reported to be similar to the chrysanthemum which appears on the crest. Included were an Italian cake tray, a French skin, a set of hair ornaments and a Japanese ink set. The owners of the objects and interested Japanese were summoned to the police station and compelled to sign an abject apology.

The national educational secretary reported the bursaries had been awarded in Saskatchewan as follows:

Forecasts Increase In Gold

Minister Of Mines Urges Help For Engineering Students

Expressing confidence that Canada would produce $135,000,000 worth of gold this year, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Natural Resources, told the Board of Trade at Timmins, Ont., that no increase in the taxes on the mining industry would be levied "at least during the lifetime of the present government."

The Minister urged the big mining companies which were represented by their chief executives at the meeting to endow scholarships in Canadian Universities for students taking mining engineering courses. It would direct the attention of the people of Canada to the importance of the mining industry and encourage the young men to take up the study of mines. For one scholarship, he suggested that the student be given a year in the ore laboratory of the Mines Department at Ottawa.

Last year Canadian mines produced $116,000,000 worth of gold but this year the production looked as if it would reach $135,000,000, and Mr. Crerar prophesied that in five years it would reach $250,000,000.

Waged Battle Against Snow In Himalayan Mountains

Five men, including Fazal Elshie of the Survey of India, were carried into Mussoorie, all suffering badly from exposure and frost bite, after being marooned for seven days near the famous Gangotri glacier, India, at a height of 18,000 feet.

The party, counting on the fine weather, had sent back their coolies ten miles to bring up rations and fuel. During their absence, the weather suddenly changed. The monsoon, which is exceptionally violent this year, penetrated the main Himalayan range and, for two nights in succession eight feet of snow fell on the surveyors' camp.

The supply coolies failed to return. After two days the party had no more fuel left—they had burned even their tent pegs—and had run short of food.

They had no alternative but to try to cut their way out. For three days they battled against the snow, which was so soft that they sank in it up to their necks and could only make progress by crawling on their hands and knees and by tunnelling.

Then the rescue party arrived and they were helped and carried down the remaining three miles to camp and, after a few days' rest were subsequently taken in to Mussoorie for treatment. All of them were making good progress and should recover completely.

Deserted Town

Baron Tweedsmuir And Party Pay Visit To Bankehead

A Rocky Mountain ghost town, Bankehead, above which towers the 10,000-foot peak of Cascade mountain, was visited recently by Canada's governor-general, Baron Tweedsmuir and Lady Tweedsmuir.

In the once prosperous town deserted a few years ago by its 2,000 inhabitants when work in a mine, its chief source of industry, was halted, stands a lone cenotaph, to commemorate the miners' war dead. There the governor-general stood in silent prayer after placing a wreath in tribute to the warriors. Only a few persons witnessed the ceremony.

Paying tribute to the part played by Canadian soldiers in the Great War, Baron Tweedsmuir warned that Canada must still fight for her place among the nations of the world.

Eighty-Seven-Year-Old Man Exhibits Expertise Work

One of the most enthusiastic needleworkers who visited the Women's Building at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, was Thomas W. Willoughby, formerly of Burlington, and now of Newmarket, according to a report from the Women's Building.

He announced his age to be 87, and after showing a practically disabled right hand, opened a box of fine linen embroidered in silks with shaded colors.

"I do this to fill in my time; to cure loneliness," said Mr. Willoughby. "But I want you ladies to understand that I had never had a needle in my hands until a few years ago. Of course, as a boy, I used to hook rugs, but this is different."

Mr. Willoughby's exhibit received a special display in the building. He did not enter it for competition.

Little Things Count

Spring is a little thing, but they are sources of large streams; a helm is a little thing, but it governs the course of a ship; a bridge-bolt is a little thing, but see its use and power; nails and pegs are little things, but they hold the large parts of buildings together; a word, a look, a frown—are all little things, but powerful for good or evil. Think of this, and mind the little things.

Scotch Curse Effective

Ancient Stronghold Turned Into Playground For The Wealthy

On the mountainside where the Campbells massacred the MacGregors, a kinsman of the Earl of Breadalbane raised beautiful Taymouth Castle, which every MacGregor and MacDonald has cursed these last two centuries.

And now the curses of the MacGregors have come true. The last mighty Campbell, the Laird of Breadalbane, can no longer afford to keep up his giant fortress, and the ancient stronghold of his mighty Scottish clan is now a hotel and playground for the wealthy.

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR

Thou Shalt Not Love

— A NOVEL BY —

GEORGIA GRAIG

I told myself then that if I saw you again that it would be a sign to me that at last I had found the girl I wanted. Heaven knows I've turned the town upside down, looking for somebody who could look the part, as well as act it. When I saw you again tonight—well, you know what I said—"Three times and out." I guess you didn't understand. He leaned over and looked her straight in the eyes. "I don't know who you are, nor anything about you, except for the essential things I asked you. I don't want to know anything else. The past is gone. Your life begins this minute."

"You want to play—to be envied; loved. . . I'll make you the talk of the town—do a better press agent job than any movie actress ever heard of. It's a national. You'll start out with an advantage no siren in history ever had. Your reputation is already made for you! All you'll have to do is live up to it! It won't be with a Broadway background, either. It will be among the 'best people' in town, those with whom you'll mingle, on whom you'll cast your spell. Your every wish shall be realized. You are beautiful—which of course you know. I'll provide the clothes and all the stage scenery. Every woman in town will be envious of you; every man will want to make love to you. Play up to it. Play!"

He paused to let his words sink in. To Starr it was still all part of that unreal dream she was sure was not yet finished. But he looked real enough. His voice was no flattery of her imagination, his earnestness sincere. He pressed his advantage seeing her quiescence.

"All I ask is that you keep your name in the headlines—not of course with any remotest connection of a Starr Ellison that was. That girl's dead from this minute on—dead and buried. A new one, the famous or infamous author, has arisen in her place." He could not, or would not, see the stricken look in Starr's eyes as he made his emphasis, nor could he know of the choke in her throat that kept her from crying out. "Dead and buried"—he had said.

He was interested only in his own scheming. "Starr Ellison, the author, must be kept on the front page, if possible, right from the go-off. I don't care how. It won't matter. What will be of account will be that every mention you get will increase the sales of the book. You'll make a fortune for me—and I will pay you accordingly."

He stopped and studied her a moment more, nodded his satisfaction. "Yes, you look the type all right—knew it from the start—with those mysterious eyes of yours and all. . . We'll have to cook up some kind of story—you gave me an idea with those few words of Arab gab of yours—a small matter—leave all that to me. The important thing is that you grasp your role. If you haven't by any chance read the book I'll tell you that my 'Play-Girl' is a symbol of blatant sex appeal, beauty without emotion, without a soul! Do you understand? Do you think you can live the part?"

Could she? Dared she try? Oh, yes, she understood, and the understanding was rather staggering. The bold, devil-may-care, social-climbing symbol of blatant sex appeal, beauty without emotion, without a soul! Do you understand? Do you think you can live the part?"

Starr was to help him make a fortune so that he could marry the great Stephanie. She was to sacrifice her own personality—he didn't care the flick of a wrist about that; he had said so in no unmistakable terms. She was to quit being the Starr Ellison she had known for almost twenty-three years and allow herself to evolve into a glamorous fiction character, a creation of the brilliant mind of Michael Fairbourne! Who was ashamed of it.

She flung up her head proudly, in that gesture her father had so often likened to the disdainful hauteur of his beloved ancient Egyptian princess. She wanted to tell him—so many things. Then she wilted. The realization of everything came back to her; things she had forgotten; the six months of life—Tut-Amen-Ra—Ama-Sun. . .

Michael Fairbourne wanted her to do this thing. Well, why not? Six months of life, after all, were all she had left. She would have no future in which to harbor any lingering regrets. She had rallied against the fate which condemned her to be a drab, falling star. This man was giving her the chance to flash through those last six months, a flaming meteor. It could be Fate—an answer to her defiance of the Egyptian gods and their curses.

To do as he asked meant that she could drink deep of the gay wine of life. In her few months she could crowd in a lifetime of thrills. Defy grim destiny in a reckless round of pleasure. Surely she had the right to do that, she who was doomed?

A strange excitement possessed her suddenly. Her cameo features glowed. She said, impulsively: "I can do it!"

Michael's hand came across the table. A big warm hand clasping her cold small one to seal their bargain. She lifted her lashes to look at him and out of her long, mysterious eyes it didn't seem just exactly right. She must make some protest. After all, if they were to be so intimately associated, would it not be better if she confessed to him—a few things. She said softly:

"But after all, we're strangers. . . Why should we trust one another so far? You know nothing of me. . ."

He flung up his head, smiled enigmatically, but the hardness in his tone was not so noticeable.

"I thought we'd passed that. But what does it matter? Strangers—yes, perhaps. But do any of us, ever truly know each other? Even after we've lived in close companionship all our lives? Aren't we lonely souls—all of us? Strangers?" The one brief glimpse he allowed her into his inner mind paused instantly. Once again he was the coldly calculating business man. He mentioned then, as though it were an afterthought:

"It's only fair to tell you that the job won't last forever. It may not last long at all. That's rather up to you—and to me, I suppose, as your manager-press agent. Pretty fancy is fickle. You will be 'Play-Girl' only as long as people are interested in the book. It may possibly be but a few months. Then you will have to go back—wherever you came from."

A dagger of ice stabbed at Starr's heart. Her great, black eyes assumed that wistful, haunting expression, that suggestion as of looking upon things remote and unearthy, which was part of her greatest beauty.

She murmured as though to herself: "A few months will be—enough."

CHAPTER VI.

"We've got to have a background for you," Michael had said, not in the least interested that Starr might have a perfectly good one, ready-made. And so he proceeded to furnish her with one which would have made an excellent plot for some other book he might some day write. Which suited Starr excellently. In this new role she didn't want to be reminded of the Starr Ellison of tragic days, nor would she have cared to be identified back in her New England home town with the Starr Ellison who was the notorious "Play-Girl."

She entered into all Michael's schemes enthusiastically, surprised at herself that she no longer shrank from all his talk about Egypt and Egyptian things. Her communion with the priestess on a vase in the Museum had done that. In fact, she rather welcomed the idea of having Egypt recalled in every way, much as a wound can be temporarily eased by the anaesthesia of further wounding.

It was Michael's idea to say she had come from Cairo. There was to be considerable mystery about just who she was, but he would see to it that there were rumors spread of her being the daughter of an American soldier of fortune and an Egyptian mother whose ancient and distinguished ancestry could be traced back to princesses of Cleopatra's day. "You see," Michael explained, "it would all work out splendidly—with those eyes of yours and your mysterious air, to say nothing of those few words of Arabic you've picked up, though God knows where. Besides Cairo's so far away no one can investigate and find out anything at all. . ."

Compliment For Canada

Has Made Best Progress In Solving Grasshopper Problem

Canada was paid a compliment at the Fourth International Conference on Anti-Locust Research, held at Cairo, Egypt. The conference considered that the formation of the Canadian Committee on Grasshopper Research and its close co-operation with workers in the United States was the type of organization required. It was also shown that the work in Canada has progressed nearer to a solution of the grasshopper problem than in any of the other 24 countries which sent delegates to the Conference.

Question Is Settled

Scientists Come To Conclusion Animals Have No Souls

Scientists working with delicate apparatus in a Kensington laboratory have settled a question that has caused endless controversy, in every part of the world:—

Have animals souls? Do our pets survive after death? Dr. Nandor Fodor, an internationally-known psychological research expert, asked Mr. B. J. Hopper, M. Sc., one of the most brilliant of British physicists, to begin experiments that would answer the question.

Now, after experimenting on mice, birds, frogs and cockroaches, both scientists issue this statement:— There is no evidence that animals have souls or any existence after death.

Argument on the subject suddenly increased when Dr. R. A. Watters, director of the Dr. William Bernhard Johnston Foundation for Psychological Research, at Reno, Nevada, started the world with his claim two years ago:—

That he had photographed "souls" leaving the bodies of animals killed in a specially-constructed chamber.

His photographs, he said, showed the shadowy "souls" of animals which resembled the physical bodies in shape.

Dr. Nandor Fodor started experiments at the International Institute for Physical Research, Kensington.

"The results," Dr. Nandor Fodor told the Sunday Chronicle recently, "were disappointing. We were unable, despite the most thorough examination, to confirm the American claims which had been hailed by Spiritualists as proof of the existence of survival."

The fate of $5,440,000 was decided by six lines of writing in Melbourne, Australia. The money was the fortune of Mr. Benjamin Nathan, a partner in a furniture warehouse firm. His will, a six-line document, has now been proved. It divides the money between his two married daughters.

Rancher F. Nelson, Of Atlee, Passes

Mr. Fred Nelson, pioneer rancher of the Atlee district, passes away on Monday at the age of 67, leaving a wife and two sons, aged 18 and 14. Mr. Nelson had sold out and was disposing of his personal property preparatory to moving to the coast. His nerves had been troubling him for the past year and this is believed to have been the contributing cause of his death.

The funeral will be held at the Ranch home on Thursday at 10 a. m. From there the body will be taken immediately to Medicine Hat for burial.

We hear some men have been having close shaves this week, around the new barber shop.

A Miluch who has been at Winnipeg for the past week, returned Sunday.

St. Andrews-by-the-Sea

The growing popularity of beautiful St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, N.B., was shown this year by the great increase of visitors during July. Privileged vacationists from all over the world spent happy days at the Bay of Fundy resort going, swimming, fishing, sailing, playing tennis, dancing, or just basking in the sun on the warm sand of Katy's Cove, sections of which are seen above in the top three pictures. Several golf tournaments have been held already on the sporty 18-hole and 9-hole courses connected with the Algonquin Hotel, and famous golfers have pronounced the links in excellent condition for other matches that will be held before the hotel finally closes at the end of the first week in September. The recent visit of President Roosevelt of the United States to the district has attracted great interest to his summer home at Campobello Island. Many American visitors have been at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea for the season. Another popular sport has been the fishing, many anglers going to the shore for the day.
